Navy to Search For Lost Fliers Until Thursday

Acting Secretary of Navy Orders Search Which Was To Have Ended Tuesday, to Be Continued Two More Days—Predicts Congressional Action Prohibiting Long Distance Flights.

Washington, Aug. 22 (P).—The Navy will continue until Thursday its search in the Pacific Ocean for the lost San Francisco to Hawaii aviators. It was announced today.

The wide search begun by about forty naval vessels almost a week ago was to have ended tomorrow night, but in view of the disappearance of the Dallas Spirit, which set out to look for the missing Golden Eagle and Miss Doran, it was decided today to continue the quest two more days.

A prediction that congress will enact a law to prohibit long distance flights, except under rigid conditions, was made today by Admiral Eberle, acting secretary of the Navy.

Efforts of 58 naval vessels, aided by the merchant craft steering a course along the 2400-mile great circle between San Francisco and Honolulu after a six-day search, failed to reveal any trace of the three missing planes—the Miss Doran, the Golden Eagle and the Dallas Spirit.

Worshippers in all Honolulu churches yesterday offered prayers for the rescue of the six men and one woman comprising the crews of the lost airships.

Geologist Dug Self Out of Cave

Had Been Entombed in Nick-a-Jack Cave for Six Days—Says Cave Surpasses Mammoth Cave—Declares That Affair Was a Hoax to Advertise Cave.

Shell Mound, Tenn., Aug. 22 (P).—Lawrence Ashley, geologist and cave explorer, today owed his life to a small cache of food he had planted far back in the recesses of the Nick-a-Jack cave and to a small shovel with which he dug his way to freedom after being entombed for six days.

Ashley made his exit yesterday from the famous cavern. In a semi-conscious condition and on the verge of collapse, the explorer protested he was none the worse for his experience, though he admitted the experience was harrowing enough.

As Ashley emerged from the cavern through a small opening hitherto unknown, rescue workers were preparing to make a final attempt to locate him, already virtually having abandoned all hope of finding him alive.

After a brief rest at the home of a friend near the cave, Ashley appeared much refreshed as he related his experiences of the past week. He was indignant at suggestions that the whole affair was a hoax to advertise the cave, on which he is said to hold a fifty year lease, and threatened to bring suit against any parties or publications that spread such a report.

Ashley described how he entered the cavern by crawling for a distance of about one hundred feet on his hands and knees. Once inside he was "amazed" at what he found.

"I have explored Mammoth Cave," he declared, "but I have never found anything in it to equal the cave I was in."

A copy of the report is in the hands of every member of the common council.

Justices Reject Sacco Pleas, Fuller Is Silent

Both Chief Justice Taft and Justice Stone Refuse to Grant Execution Stay—Convicted Men Stand Pat on Their Refusal of Religion—Governor Fuller Only One Who Can Prevent Men From Meeting Death at Midnight—No Serious Disturbances in Boston During Forenoon.

Boston, Aug. 22 (P).—Sacco and Vanzetti in their cells today stood pat on their refusal of religion. They had slept seemingly well and appeared fairly strong.

Their counsel meanwhile covered a large section of the East with dramatic attempts to stave off the executions set for shortly after midnight. Counsel lost in its attempts to get intervention from Chief Justice Taft and Supreme Court Justice Stone. There remained Governor Fuller, who started his day in Boston silent as usual, and attempts for stay of execution in state courts.

Boston during the forenoon, had no serious outbreaks of violence in Sacco-Vanzetti demonstrations although 52 arrests were made when police broke up a picket line in front of the state house.

NEGRO RE-ARRESTED ON DISCHARGE FROM NAPANOCH

James Brown, a negro who was an inmate of the Napanoch Institution for Defective Delinquents, was taken into custody this morning by Deputy Sheriff Ralph Constable and brought to the Ulster county jail. Brown was arrested as he was leaving the institution having been sentenced for a term of seven and a half years to fifteen years in 1923, his time being up with allowances given under the law. He had been sentenced because of being implicated in an effort of a number of prisoners to make a getaway, when the institution at Napanoch was a Reformatory and a keeper named Christiansa was killed.

At one time several months ago while he was out on parole was arrested in Ellenville on a charge of assault on a white girl to whom he had written letters. He was found guilty of assault in county court and Judge Fowler sentenced him to a two year term at Clinton prison at Dannemora. He will now be taken there to serve the sentence. Brown is a very powerful negro. Since the county court sentence he has been at Napanoch for breaking his parole.

Morgan's Life On English Estate

Famous American Millionaire Leads Life of Simple Country Squire When He Visits Estate at Aldenham.

Aldenham, England, Aug. 22 (P). J. Pierpont Morgan may be a titan in Wall street, but to the village folk hereabouts he is a simple, country squire. He arrived on his holiday this year at his English country home, Wall Hall, accompanied by his daughter, Mrs. G. Nicholls and three grandchildren.

Mrs. Nicholls sat down in a bench by the garage and watched her chauffeur wash down the limousine in which she and her father had traveled from Paddington Station in London.

After a while she wandered off to stroke the noses of the prize Jersey cows. Mr. Morgan made an immediate tour of inspection, and stopped to admire his wheat crop, one of the best in England this year. Later he walked down to the banks of the Colne to look at the water lilies.

Wall Hall is a castellated mansion, with vine clad towers and a wide veranda looking out on a fine tract of woods.

On Sunday Mr. Morgan attends the picturesque little church of Aldenham, a half a mile from his home. Later he will visit his estate in Scotland.

The financier, now in his sixtieth year, stands six feet two inches and appears to be in the best of health. He is neighborly with the villagers and knows many of them personally. On his long rambles about the countryside, he is constantly making new friends. He is here for a rest and intends to make it a perfect holiday.

Coolidge Recovers From His Illness

Had suffered a Slight Attack of Indigestion Which Kept Him in Bed Part of Sunday—Is on His Way to Yellowstone National Park.

En Route to Yellowstone, Edgemont, S. D., Aug. 22 (P).—President Coolidge was feeling better today as he was travelling to Yellowstone National Park. He had suffered a slight attack of indigestion which kept him in bed yesterday.

After boarding the train at Custer last night, Mr. Coolidge was able to enter the dining car for a regular meal dinner before retiring and Dr. James P. Coupal, his physician, said there was no doubt but that the attack had been cured, but that the President spent four hours fishing in the hot sun Saturday and this is believed to have contributed somewhat to his illness. After remaining in bed Sunday morning he was about the state game lodge during the afternoon, sitting on the front porch for a while. A slight cold also contributed to his discomfort.

Cool weather favored the Presidential party as it entered Montana on its way to the north entrance of the park.

Wiersing entered a plea of guilty to the disorderly charge and said he desired to make an explanation. He said he was driving toward Eddyville and there was a car parked in front of the Tiger residence at No. 251 Abeel street on the wrong side of the street. As Wiersing came around the turn in the road he was blinded, he said by the headlights on the other car, and ran into the wall and then into the other car which is owned by George Schatzle of 69 German street.

Mr. Tigar, in front of whose house the collision occurred, was in court seeking for damages to his grounds. According to his story the Schatzle car had been parked in front of his place for half an hour before it was hit by the other car. He said that the young folks in it were making such a disturbance that he had warned them several times to keep quiet.

Wiersing's story was that there were two girls and two young fellows in the car at the time he struck it. According to Wiersing's story there would have been no collision if the Schatzle car had not been parked on the wrong side of the street on the turn of the road.

Man Accused of Beating Woman

Tracy Gorseline Arrested on Complaint of Antoinette Taggart Who Claims He Beat Her Up in Cemetery—Other Cases Before Judge Shufeldt.

Antoinette Taggart of this city appeared in police court this morning with a badly battered face to press a charge of assault in the third degree she had lodged against Tracy F. Gorseline. According to the woman's sworn information they were in the Elmendorf street cemetery when Tracy struck her with his fists in the face and body. From her appearance there was no question but that she had been struck. Gorseline entered a plea of not guilty and the hearing was set down for August 30 and bail fixed at $100.

Arrest Followed Crash.

Ernest Wiersing of Elmhurst, L. I., who is spending his vacation in the vicinity of Kingston, was arrested at midnight Saturday on a charge of disorderly conduct. Frank Smith of New Salem, who was in the car with him, was arrested on a charge of public intoxication.

Wiersing entered a plea of guilty to the disorderly charge and said he desired to make an explanation. He said he was driving toward Eddyville and there was a car parked in front of the Tiger residence at No. 251 Abeel street on the wrong side of the street. As Wiersing came around the turn in the road he was blinded, he said by the headlights on the other car, and ran into the wall and then into the other car which is owned by George Schatzle of 69 German street.

Mr. Tigar, in front of whose house the collision occurred, was in court seeking for damages to his grounds. According to his story the Schatzle car had been parked in front of his place for half an hour before it was hit by the other car. He said that the young folks in it were making such a disturbance that he had warned them several times to keep quiet.

Wiersing's story was that there were two girls and two young fellows in the car at the time he struck it. According to Wiersing's story there would have been no collision if the Schatzle car had not been parked on the wrong side of the street on the turn of the road.

Judge Shufeldt discharged Wiersing, after hearing his story, with a suspended sentence.

Smith, who was with Wiersing, pleaded guilty to public intoxication and also received a suspended sentence.

Ward Given a Chance.

Michael Ward of 21 German street, arrested on Abeel street Sunday evening on a charge of public intoxication, entered a plea of guilty. He explained he was a member of the Elgin Baseball Club and had attended the first annual clambake held that day and it proved too much for him. As he was married and had two small children he was given a suspended sentence by Judge Shufeldt.

Dismiss 25 New York Dry Agents

Washington, Aug. 22 (P).—Twenty-five prohibition agents in New York city today were dismissed as a part of an announced country-wide program to eliminate inefficient employees.

Assistant Secretary Lowman, in making the announcement, said that the force would be further reduced, probably by about ten men, to meet the requirements of the budget for operation of the office. No charges were preferred against the men, Lowman said.

The reduction, which affected principally those who were transferred to New York when the alcoholic and brewery control squad was disbanded, leaves approximately 175 agents there.

Heavy Traffic Over Week End

The final two weeks of the summer vacation period was responsible for unusually heavy traffic over the week end. Motor traffic was heavy both north and south bound and hotels and boarding houses catered to crowds of holiday proportions. All day Sunday traffic from the Catskills and Adirondacks flowed through Kingston, giving traffic officers a constant battle to keep traffic moving. South of Kingston on the main highway there was a steady stream of cars but in spite of the heavy traffic there were few accidents.

Autos Collide at Phoenix.

Phoenix, Aug. 22.—Y. Somerville sustained a broken collar bone and bruises about the head and body when the delivery truck he was driving collided with the Mac Dougall ambulance of Endicott, N. Y., near the Rawson House, Friday morning. He was attended by Dr. Gross. Both cars were badly damaged. One of the three occupants of the ambulance was cut about the face. The ambulance was on its way from Highmount with a woman who was ill.

Justices Reject Sacco Pleas, Fuller Is Silent

Both Chief Justice Taft and Justice Stone Refuse to Grant Execution Stay—Convicted Men Stand Pat on Their Refusal of Religion—Governor Fuller Only One Who Can Prevent Men From Meeting Death at Midnight—No Serious Disturbances in Boston During Forenoon.

Boston, Aug. 22 (P).—Sacco and Vanzetti in their cells today stood pat on their refusal of religion. They had slept seemingly well and appeared fairly strong.

Their counsel meanwhile covered a large section of the East with dramatic attempts to stave off the executions set for shortly after midnight. Counsel lost in its attempts to get intervention from Chief Justice Taft and Supreme Court Justice Stone. There remained Governor Fuller, who started his day in Boston silent as usual, and attempts for stay of execution in state courts.

Boston during the forenoon, had no serious outbreaks of violence in Sacco-Vanzetti demonstrations although 52 arrests were made when police broke up a picket line in front of the state house.

Docket Petitions at Washington.

Washington, Aug. 22 (P).—The petitions of counsel for Sacco and Vanzetti asking reviews of the proceedings in their case in the Massachusetts courts were docketed today in the Supreme Court.

The petition seeking review of the action of the Superior Court of Norfolk county, in which the men were tried and convicted, was given the Number 467 while that asking a review of the action of the Massachusetts supreme court was numbered 468.

Aid Motorist Prevent Bad Accidents

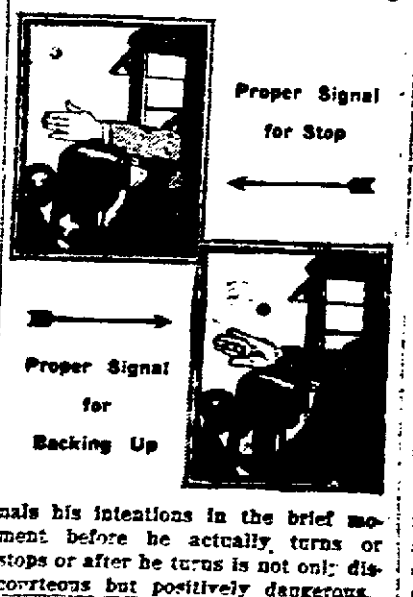

THE first rule of the road is to let the other driver behind, or approaching you know exactly what you intend to do and when you intend to do it.

So say the Standard Oil Company of New York in their road maps of New York State and New England, in which they also advocate, and illustrate, the use of four simple signals, all executed with the left hand. This is part of the Safety First campaign which Soccar has carried on so persistently both in instructions to its own drivers and in its advertising to the public, and is well worth the attention of all motorists.

A right turn is indicated by a clockwise revolution of the hand towards the right. The signal for a left turn is executed by pointing the index finger straight out to the left. A stop is indicated by extending the arm horizontally with the fingers of the hand open and the palm facing forward. The "back up" signal is given by extending the hand horizontally as for the stop signal but with the palm facing the rear. If necessary, a slight waving motion towards the rear might accompany this "back up" gesture, if there is a car close behind.

Some drivers forget to signal until the very moment they apply the brakes. Other drivers begin to signal a half block or more before they are ready to turn. Either method is liable to confuse the operator of the car behind, although it is much more desirable to give too much time rather than too little. The driver who signals his intentions in the brief moment before he actually turns or stops or after he turns is not only courteous but positively dangerous.

Bizarre Footwear Loses Popularity

Lack of Violent Colorings and Heavy Trimmings in New Shoes.

Bizarre trimmings, lurid colors and extreme lasts have lost caste with the Paris bottlers and, incidentally, with the smart Parisienne. Simplicity, notes a Paris fashion correspondent in the New York Herald-Tribune, is distinctly the essence of the new shoes and there is a marked lack of the violent colorings and heavy trimmings that were recently en vogue.

No radically new types are shown and the principal shapes are the broad one-strap model, the closed oxford and the Prince of Wales. Open oxfords, step-ins, opera pumps and center-strap types also are being affected during the afternoons on the smart avenues. Brown is the leading color and buff, suede and kid are the outstanding leathers. Following them in popularity come real and imitation lizard, alligator, water snake and python. Fewer novelty leathers are being exploited among the new slippers.

Trimings are notably more discreet and while they are seldom entirely absent they never reach the ornate heights of last season. Thus toe caps and heel quarters are an outstanding method of elaboration. Sometimes both of these are scalloped. Fringed tongue effects also are being widely featured and occasionally an insert of lighter-toned leather is employed to give a cut-out effect. Indeed, it may be said that the smartest method of shoe decorations are contrasting trims of matching or opposite colors.

heel frequently are encountered in a single type. Restrained decoration, as with afternoon sports models, also is the governing factor of the more formal afternoon shoe now in the fashion limelight.

Paul Poiret has some very definite ideas about summer footwear and he has laid down the following doctrines for his clientele: Daytime footwear should be unobtrusive; ornate trimmings and radical color combinations should be sedulously avoided. Chic should consist entirely of cut and cut, while it may occasionally give the aspect of luxury, always should be fundamentally simple. Heels should be neither as high as they were during the very feminine pre-war period, nor as low as the extremes of the current mannish mode often have made them. Only for golf and walking is the very low heel advisable, and even for walking a semi-high type is recommended for women who are in any way inclined toward embonpoint. It is a fact that heels unduly low invariably cause women to acquire a ponderous, heavy and ungainly gait. The various reptile skins, such as snake, lizard and python, are mushroom fantasies, and while they may be worn during the immediate season their vogue is bound to be brief. In general, the most adaptable shoe leather is kid—it can be dyed in soft and delicate colors, it molds the foot and it is conducive to easy and graceful walking.

Be Reasonable

"Sweet reasonableness" is one of the gifts most enviable, most to be coveted and cultivated. Goldsmith says of his village schoolmaster that, "even though vanquished, he could argue still," a sure sign that this high-spirited fellow was in quest of victory rather than truth.—Exchange.

KINGSTON, N. Y., AUG. 22, 1927.

A despatch from Bucharest recently told to the world that "three American children here have a king for their playmate. This is a privilege of the three little children of William S. Culbertson, American minister to Roumania." To which the San Diego Independent replies quite properly that the matter of privilege is two-sided. Little Michael is lucky to have some children to play with. Let us hope they all really play in the democratic fashion of childhood. It would be very good training for any prospective ruler to spend his childhood playing baseball, tag, hide and seek, leapfrog, and a lot of other active games with some robust, play-loving American kids.

THE IRISH OATH.

Serious questions are raised by the manner in which Eamon de Valera and his 53 republican supporters have taken the oath of allegiance to the British king, as a preliminary to their entering the Irish parliament. After long delay these representatives, who stand for an independent Irish republic, overcame their scruples against taking the oath, apparently satisfying themselves with a mental reservation. Immediately after swearing allegiance, they issued a statement saying that they regarded the oath as a mere formality, not binding in conscience or law.

That would make an interesting situation in case any of the group, because of conduct judged disloyal while serving as members of the parliament, should be accused of treason. There would be a notable clash of viewpoints regarding oaths.

The matter may make trouble during the present session. At least it will serve as material for many a clash in debate. It has its bearing on the sanctity and force of oaths in general. If an oath of allegiance taken to a king or a constitution is "a mere formality," can an oath of veracity taken in court be any more than that? Perjury is all too common a crime already, especially in the United States.

WHY ABUSE LINDBERGH?

Everybody hates a busy-body. Nobody will admit being one. Yet this country is so full of busy-bodies that the life of a fine, normal, useful young man is in a fair way to be made most unhappy, his health to be ruined, and his serviceable career to be cut short. The young man is Charles A. Lindbergh, now engaged in touring the country, supposedly in the interests of aviation, but actually, it sometimes appears, to gratify the insatiable appetites of the devouring busy-bodies.

If Lindbergh smokes a cigaret the busy-bodies must take him to task and publicly abuse him. If he does not, the other busy-bodies must abuse him as a goody-goody. If he is tired from actual physical strain and tries to escape pressing throngs of exuberant hero-worshippers, he is derided as stand-offish, rude, conceited. If he shrinks from the hokum that is dished up to him in city after city, he is called a grouch. Wherever he goes he has to face hordes of strangers who regard him as their own pet curiosity to be gazed at and mauled around for their pleasure. He is paraded through miles of city streets with more acclaim but little more comfort than a Roman captive.

Does it not seem a pity that the fine flavor of that glorious Paris reception must be dulled and turned to bitterness by countless, wearying imitations? Cannot Americans realize that their hero is a human being, not a mechanical automaton?

Can we not begin now to reward this young man for his great achievement by giving him a respectful hearing when he speaks for aviation and then allowing him leisure and privacy for himself? He desperately needs rest and seclusion.

THE RAILROAD PUZZLE.

The public can sympathize a little with the eastern railroad executives who are determined to find out what, if anything, is on the Interstate Commerce Commission's mind. Some time ago Congress authorized railroad mergers for certain purposes and under certain conditions. Three projects, all claimed by the roads proposed, ing them to be in the public interest, have been presented to the commission and turned down. The New York Central plan was rejected because a minority committee objected to its financial set-up. The New York Central plan was rejected because of the protests of short-line feeders. The Lorain Southern plan was turned down because a weak unit of the proposed system was elected to become the nucleus of stronger roads.

In every case, say the railroad men, their executives have declared publicly that if the planned mergers were found to be in the public interest, but exception was taken to minor details, they would correct those details to suit the commission. In every case, they add, the commission failed to explain what, in its opinion, would make the mergers acceptable.

Protesting is what minorities do best. But if their protests are always to have greater weight than the decision of majorities, then mergers or anything else can't move forward very fast. Last year Congress failed to pass the Parker bill, which was designed to remedy this particular difficulty. It provided that protesting minorities should have a hearing in federal courts. It may be introduced again in Congress next winter, but the railroad executives have lost interest in it.

Whether the railroads are right or the Interstate Commerce Commission is right, is hard to figure out from the present situation. But anybody can agree with the executives who would like to know exactly what's what, where they stand and what is required to make a merger satisfactory to the powers that be.

LIGHT FOR BOTH

We hear much about the advantages newspaper advertising affords the business men who buy the space, but we do not hear so much about the benefits the reading public derives from this same advertising. As a matter of fact, the people who read the ads and shop accordingly are taking advantage of a fine service provided for them by the advertisers and newspaper.

Before they go out of their homes, the people have had an opportunity to make their selections carefully and economically. This is a distinct convenience to the public. They look for the ads and patronize the merchants who display their wares in the columns of the paper. Thus they are spared the inconvenience and uncertainty of bargain hunting through crowded shopping districts.

This is the reason why the merchants of Kingston advertise in the Freeman. They regard it as a service to their customers, something that will enable them to shop wisely and conveniently.

EVIDENCE AGAINST INFECTED TEETH AND TONSILS.

Some time ago I quoted America's celebrated dentist, Dr. Price of Cleveland, as saying that dentists were responsible for one in every ten deaths, simply because they refused to extract infected teeth, death being due to chronic rheumatism and heart disease.

Also Dr. Mayo, the surgeon, as saying that infective teeth were a most common cause of rheumatism and heart disease.

In a report from an English school medical officer we learned that in a number of cases of rheumatism, or arthritis as it is called, that the tonsils were infected in 95 per cent.

One would think that with evidence such as this there would be less criticism about the removal of infected teeth and tonsils, but it would appear that the physician who has the courage to recommend these procedures must stand for the joke or serious statement that "he couldn't find out what was wrong so he blamed it on the teeth," or perhaps on the tonsils.

However there are hundreds of thousands of people who stand ready to testify that the removal of teeth or tonsils has meant a new life on earth to them, and their statements will be verified by their doctor and dentist.

Some folks have been disappointed because they did not get instant results from removal of teeth and tonsils, forgetting that poisons remain in the system in the glands, for months after the organs that manufactured them have been removed.

And now we have two New York surgeons, Drs. Cecil and Archer, who report two hundred cases of infectious arthritis, or rheumatism, that came one after the other, in the regular way to be treated.

They were not "selected" in any way. Each case as it arrived, was studied as to the cause of the painful inflamed joints.

And what was the result? "The teeth and tonsils were the commonest cause of the infection." In young people infected tonsils are responsible for a high percentage of the cases. In other people infected teeth are more apt to be the cause.

Of course tonsils, even if large, should not be condemned if they are healthy and not interfering with the breathing.

Losing teeth, even infected teeth is not a pleasant prospect, but in your anxiety to keep them for their appearance, and for purposes of chewing the food, you should remember that you are, as I've said before, taking serious chances with a crippling rheumatism or even heart disease.

FROG HOPPERS ATTACK

FINE TREES AND GRASS

White frothy matter or spittle on hard pine, in particular, has attracted notice in different sections of this state, according to Dr. E. P. Felt, state entomologist, of the New York State Museum at Albany. This peculiar excretion is produced by the young of so-called spittle insects or frog hoppers. If the mass of spittle is peated to one side, there will be found on the branch a dull brownish, wingless insect, one-fourth of an inch or less in length. The spittle is sap drawn from the plant, passed through the body of the little frog hopper and then transformed by a scooping, heaving motion of the posterior extremity into a mass of protective froth, which shields the insect from drying winds and natural enemies, such as birds and parasites. These spittle insects rarely cause serious injury to trees, although the masses covering them may be quite noticeable. There are at least two species of spittle insects occurring upon pine, and a number of others subsist upon a variety of plants, notably alder, while two attack grass. These latter are sometimes very abundant and occasionally reduce the hay crop for some of the dead heads occur locally seen in grass. These grass inhabiting species are abundant only in old meadows and are easily controlled by the moderately frequent rotation of crops.

Troubles drowned in drink always come up again, but those drowned in hard work rise no more.

GENERAL ELECTRIC Refrigerator

Install it . . . and forget it

You will forget the new General Electric Refrigerator—except to bless the way it lightens household tasks. It makes two trips to market take the place of six. It keeps all foods at just the right temperature. It makes the preparation of those delightful salads and desserts a matter of minutes instead of hours. It never needs attention—not even oiling.

Come in and see it. You will notice that it is unusually quiet. That it has no pipes, belts, drains or fans to get out of order. That its shelves are unusually roomy. That it is portable. That all its moving parts are enclosed in a single hermetically sealed casing. All these advantages are the result of fifteen years of painstaking research by the General Electric Company.

Brilliant Retreat

Xenophon, the Greek military leader and historian, lived from about the year 430 to 355 B. C. In 401 B. C. he joined a body of 10,000 Greek mercenaries serving under Cyrus in Persia. Cyrus was slain, and it devolved upon Xenophon to lead home the Greeks over the mountains of Armenia, through a hostile and rugged country to the Black sea. He performed the great feat and wrote an account of the retreat of the 10,000 which is used in college today as a Greek reader.

Praying Engineer Sits at Throttle

Not An Ordinary Minister But Has Filled Many Pulpits in Southern States—Kans a New York Flyer.

Atlanta, Aug. 22 (AP)—As the giant engine of a fast New York-New Orleans train burns the rails on the lap between Charlotte, N. C., and Atlanta, it carries at the throttle a preaching, praying engineer.

David J. Fant is his name, and he has never had a serious accident. On every run for many years, before mounting the cabin to send his engine dashing through darkness or bright sunlight, storms or fair weather, he has prayed for the safety of his passengers.

Before he was assigned to the fast train, Fant had an engine the emblem of which was an open Bible, with the inscription "Thy Word is Truth" engraved across its open face.

He began preaching several years ago, and although not an ordained minister has filled pulpits in virtually every southern state and in many of the north and west. He has just completed a three weeks' camp meeting in Florida, following an evangelistic visit to Nebraska and Minnesota.

Fant never has trouble in obtaining leaves to preach, he says. Now, after having spent most of the summer in pulpits, he is preparing to resume his post at the throttle.

"I love every detail of my railroad work and have for years," he says. "But I also have a mission to perform and in preaching I can perform it and still pilot my engine."

"My little girl wants everything she sees," said a Kingston man, "which wouldn't be so disconcerting if it wasn't for the fact that she sees everything."

"Haven't I told you, Bobby, that you will wash your fingers if you drive nails?"

"Yes, I know, Dad, but Jane's holding the nail."

The putter-off rarely puts it over.

Hotsy: I haven't a decent frock to wear to the party tonight.
Totsy: Then why not wear that indecent one you had on last night.

Barber: Your head is badly in need of a shampoo, sir.

That Magic Bottle

"The bottle of medicine habit is nothing but a persistence of a depraved superstition or a form of medieval fetish worship."

This statement, made by Professor Wynd, has probably surprised a good many people, for there is still widespread faith in the magic of "the doctor's bottle."

Indeed, it is rather difficult to remain skeptical about it when you are ill. Many a husband, who has advised his wife to "throw all that silly stuff down the sink" while she was taking medicine, has swallowed poisonous draughts very sweetly when his own turn came.

Still, we probably do take too much medicine. Most of us are our own "doctors" even before we are forty, and doctor with favorite prescriptions.

Design of Colonial Clock Tells Its Age

An interesting history of the friendly, old-fashioned Colonial clock is given by Walter Kandell Storey in Arts and Decoration Magazine.

"No one bit of furniture gives quite as cheerful and quaint a note to a room as does a Colonial clock. There is a distinct decorative quality in a banjo or tyre clock on the wall, a grandfather clock in the corner, or an early shelf clock on the fireplace mantel. These interesting relics of Colonial times, still ticking away, never tell what they have seen years ago. Tell their round, friendly faces and dignified forms hint of farmhouses with low-beamed ceilings, or Georgian mansions with lofty rooms.

"The earliest tall clocks had plain tops. Around 1700 the tops were decorated with three balls or some other form of ornament, the middle ball being placed higher than those at the sides. Later the domed top and the top with the broken arch, so popular in Colonial cabinet work, as well as the scroll top, came into the fashion of the day.

"If your clock has a square metal dial it is likely to be of the Seventeenth century, for it was not until after the beginning of the Eighteenth century that the arch above the dial appeared with its moving moon or heaving ship. Clocks in those days had more to do than today, for some were also equipped to tell the month and the day of the month and to inform the family whether it was April or May."

Genius of Shakespeare
Shakespeare used the skeletons of former life that had drifted down to him upon the stream of time, and were cast at his feet as a heap of dead matter. But he clothed them with flesh and blood, and breathed into their nostrils, and they lived and moved with a life that was individual and self-existent after he had once thrown it off from his own exuberant and intellectual vitality. His towering brain bred lowlier beggars and knickerbockers than all Europe could have furnished as subjects for his portraiture. He found in his own consciousness ideas neither he nor any other man had ever looked upon.—Richard Grant White.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

THE SOLOIST

The birds had begun their early morning concert.

They had been practicing for their grand concert of the season which they had given that morning and which I am now going to tell you about.

They had been practicing hard every morning.

The vireos, having such lovely voices and being devoted to music, got it up and made all the arrangements. The day before the concert, they scratched signs on the trees which, in the bird world, read:

"Concert in the village park tomorrow morning at six o'clock. All those who are taking part will, of course, be present."

"Those who are not taking part will be invited to attend."

"Splendid music."

"Good seats."

"Feature of concert to be the soloist."

"The name of the soloist will not be made known until the concert."

All the birds were tremendously excited when they read that, for it was all a surprise arranged by the vireos.

They were the only ones who knew who the soloist was to be.

At the rehearsals even the soloist had not appeared.

At last the time for the concert came. All the birds were up very early that morning, fussing to look their very best.

They Scratched Signs.

Most of the birds sat around on the grass, but some of them had reserved boxes in the trees.

The program for the concert was delightful.

The robins sang in chorus, as did the chirping sparrows. The warblers sang quartets and duets.

Several of the chickadees gave little solos. The thrushes and the vireos appeared many times on the program.

They were encored again and again and were greatly pleased.

The soloist was to appear the very last.

A vireo came out and announced to the audience that the soloist, being slightly nervous, would not stand before them and sing, but would sing from a very short distance.

Then they heard from a neighboring tree the strange, lonely song of the whippoorwill.

He sang his song several times over, and the applause was terrific. The birds were charmed, absolutely charmed.

The whippoorwill was very modest and didn't see why they liked his solo at all.

He had really been very shy about appearing at the concert. But he was encouraged by the vireos, who, as a rule, are nervous, too, when they appear in public.

At the end of the concert a vote of thanks was given the vireos for the crowning success of their concert and an additional vote of thanks for their splendid soloist.

Not to Be Outdone

Being a member of a miscellaneous party of ladies and gentlemen where the dominant feature of the dinner was a fine roast chicken, three-year-old Mary gravely listened to the unstinted compliments the older guests paid the hostess in accepting a second helping of the fowl, nearly all of whom remarked, "what lovely, tender chicken this is."

Little Mary, who had listened to these unstinted compliments paid the hostess, called for a second helping of gravy, expressing her sense of gratitude when her request was complied with, said: "This sure is nice, tender gravy."

Wasn't There

Mary Lou's aunt, who was visiting mother, went to call on a friend. In the meantime Mary Lou came rushing in from play peeking around the room and back of doors.

Mother asked: "What are you looking for, dear?"

"The looking for who ain't here," was Mary Lou's quick reply.

Stone Walls Used to Rebuild Church

Wolcott, Conn., Aug. 22 (P)—Stone walls may not make a prison, but on occasion they go a long way toward making a chapel. Units of many of the stone walls so common here have gone into the little chapel which the people of Woodtick, one of the small communities of this town, have erected after a long financial campaign to raise necessary funds.

When first destroyed the little wooden structure which had served the settlement as a church since 1885, only one service had been held in it for many years, although it had served occasionally as a hall for lay gatherings.

After the fire, however, the neighbors decided that to have no church was not in accord with New England and Connecticut tradition. Socials, subscriptions, strawberry suppers and food sales were held, the money was raised and the chapel was built from stones taken from walls of the neighborhood.

RARE RECORDS LOST IN VIENNA RIOTING

Vienna Aug. 22 (P)—Ownership of property, validity of marriages and divorces, financial settlements and many court cases are made doubtful by the wholesale destruction of records in the burning of the Palace of Justice during the July socialist rioting.

Several years, it is estimated, will be needed to gather again the evidence on file in pending civil and criminal cases. Many of these probably will be dropped, because some documents can not be replaced.

Nearly half of the abstracts of title to Vienna property were burned. Records of many regularizations of irregular marriages are gone. All trace of many debt arrangements is gone. The loss of the records, it is said, will affect seriously thousands of firms and individuals.

STRAIGHT TALKS WITH AUNT EMMY

ON FRANCINE'S THRIFT

As Helen settled herself in Aunt Emmy's big chair she said: "Jack Hunt has bought the Briggs place. I never was so astonished in my life. Jack didn't have a dollar when he married Francine, and now he's bought a house."

"Well, my dear, it's not so surprising to me. Francine is responsible for their prosperity."

"Why, Aunt Emmy, I thought she was awfully frivolous. I remember how disappointed I was when Jack married her. She seemed entirely too pretty and too well dressed to be a good wife. When I dined at their house I thought she was frightfully extravagant about her table. She must have paid her cook a lot to have the food she served."

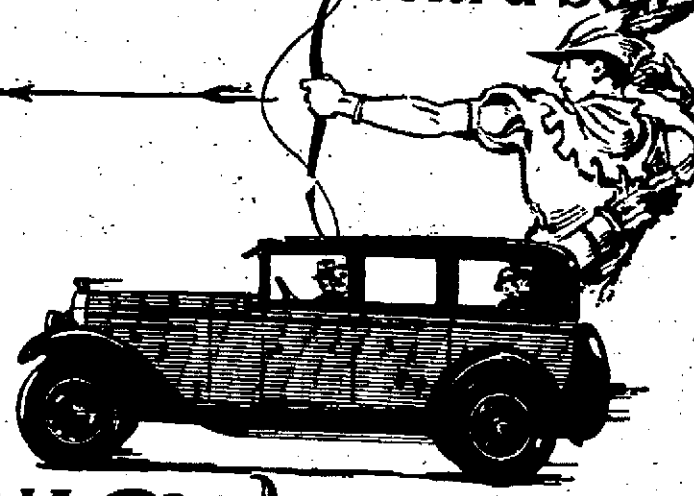

Aunt Emmy smiled. "I liked Francine from the first," she said. "She and I became good friends. She told me how worried she was because Jack did not seem to think of the future and never tried to save money. Everything about housekeeping was so new to her that she was glad to come to me with her little problems. I advised her to save regularly, no matter how hard it might be. She coaxed Jack to open an account at the bank for her household money. He thought it was silly because they had so little. She said she could keep more accurate ac-

POULTRY RECORD CLUB MEETINGS THIS WEEK

Two Poultry Record Club meetings will be held by the Farm Bureau this week, the first at the Court House in Kingston on Tuesday at 7:30 p. m., Standard time, the second at the trustees' rooms in New Paltz on Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. Standard time. The purpose of the meetings is to discuss the records kept by members of the Poultry Record Club and to give members the opportunity to discuss their business with Professor L. M. Hurd.

Manager Wigsten states that a part of the evening will be spent in considering plans for next year and in getting new books opened correctly. Club members are requested to bring friends along who may be interested in keeping records another year. The work will be explained so that they may come in another year if they so desire.

GET AWAY like an arrow from a bow

BUICK for 1928

Buick for 1928 gets away in traffic like an arrow from a bow! Watch the Buicks next time you drive downtown. See how easily they step out in front when the signal changes. And note how they give other cars the slip in the friendly rivalry of traffic.

Truly amazing performance! But amazing only in comparison with other cars. For in every phase of performance Buick for 1928 is equally adept—in the ease with which it attains, and maintains, the highest speeds—in the way it breasts the steepest hills—and in the way it ignores sand, deep mud and rough going.

Every day, in every city in the land, Buick for 1928 is demonstrating the superiority of the famous Buick Valve-in-Head engine—the engine that is vibrationless beyond belief.

You cannot say you know the full meaning of "performance" until you've driven a Buick for 1928. The nearest Buick dealer will gladly arrange a trial.

Smoked 40,000 Cigarettes.

New York.—When New York transit companies imported strikebreakers in preparation for a subway strike, they agreed to furnish not only food and board but also cigarettes. The last was a costly item. The strike failed to materialize and the strikebreakers stayed but three days—but in that time they smoked 40,000 company fags.

Lines Have Crept up Gradually, but with a Certainty—Velvets, Especially Novelty Fabrics, Are Important for Fall

New York—Whether or not one is sympathetic with the "more elegance" movement, it must be admitted that the results are bound to be interesting and varied. No longer is a group of women to be described as dressed alike as two peas in a pod. One-piece, loosely belted dresses and cloche hats, which made all the news of the world akin, have passed. In their place has come a bewildering variety of design and color and a great contradiction of line.

If one does not believe that waistlines have risen in the world, just try slipping into such dresses as were worn forty-four years ago. It is amusing now to see how elongated waists were then. In shortening waists, the correct proportions were gained by shortening the skirt as well. While it is still the exceptional dress that has a waist even a half an inch above the normal, many do over at that point.

Summer Evening Wrap of Lustrous Yellow Satin

A summer evening wrap is always necessary. The model shown is a beautiful garment for formal occasions. It is of lustrous yellow satin, trimmed with black of the same material.

Heavier Sports Dress
Needs Expert Tailoring

In sports dress of the heavier type expert tailoring is of utmost importance both for style and for the practical consideration of durability. In the sports suits that come from Reville of London the genuine English and Scotch article is shown in correct form. The homespun, chevrons, covers, whipcords and different English materials, traditionally the sports goods, are now made for the more strenuous activities and have a certain air of smartness even as they are adapted to the last-minute mode. The usual sports suit consists of skirt and jacket, Norfolk, or sackcoat, with blouse or sweater.

The weight of fabric depends entirely upon the place and occasion for which the suit is to be worn. Jolly sports suits for the seashore, yachting and the mountains are shown in much jersey and knitted goods, in pretty flannels, the reps and mixtures, stripes, checks and herringbones.

Organic Frocks Appear in Variety of Shades

Many of the smart shops are displaying organic frocks of informal summer type. Shades of pink, orchid, ecru and green are favored. Dinner and informal dance frocks are the types featured in organic materials.

There is much speculation as to whether older matrons will accept cotton materials to any degree although it seems certain that slender misses who can wear gowns of a period type will use organic as a means of asserting youthfulness. The skirts of these gowns are most interesting, some of them having appliques of silk taffeta, moire or georgette flowers at the hemline, some being adorned with maline hemline and some fluted, tiered or flounced in maline or organdie. Slender bodices, rounded necklines and full skirts form the youthful effect of most models.

Bows of Satin Trim
Coats for Afternoon

The coats intended for the afternoon are straight in line, folding over in the front and trimmed with the same tab on the label. These coats are either executed in moire rep or else in plain wooten fabrics trimmed with plain crepe matching braid. They often have scarf collars lined with plain crepe matching in color or else with printed crepe and frequently "plumes" are placed behind the collar.

The really habilite coats are similar in line, but these are lined with matching satin, which forms the collar, revers and the large bow placed high on the collar above the left shoulder. This bow, which trims almost every coat, is one of the chief characteristics of these models.

White Satin Chosen for Evening Gowns

Soft cream or white satin is receiving considerable attention from the Paris designers of evening gowns. Normally, the beauty of the gown of white satin depends on the grace with which it is draped, though some of the designers have chosen to use it merely as a background for elaborate bead embroidery. Lelong has resorted to no other aid than a rhinestone-encrusted belt to enhance the lustrous charm of his exquisite gown wrapped about the figure from the right shoulder and ending in a hanging drapery at the left side of the skirt. The left shoulder strap is merely a line of beffiant.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Meats are our expensive foods and they may be extended, or pieced out, by using vegetables, cereals, well-seasoned noodles as well as dumplings and stuffings, to make the meat go farther and lessen expense. It really is the meat flavor (the extractives in the meat), that makes it palatable. This flavor is added to other foods when cooked with them, thus making all well flavored.

Try keeping a tabulated list of dishes liked by the family and friends who are often entertained, increasing the list to avoid repetition. Serving the same foods in the same old way, day in and day out, engulfs the family in a rut deep enough to swamp and ruin a household.

A glass of hot milk taken just before retiring is a good sleep producer. A hard chest cold may be cured in a night by greasing the chest well with heated lard and turpentine. Use one part turpentine to two parts lard. Use care about heating as it is highly inflammable.

When making French dressing put a small piece of ice in the bowl. It will blend and thicken more quickly.

While carrots are young and tender, make some marmalade. Take one and one-half pounds of cooked well-washed carrots cut in cubes or strips, when the carrots are tender, add the same weight of sugar and two lemons cut fine, excluding the seeds. Simmer until thick, then pour into glasses and seal for winter use.

When making poultry handle as quickly and with as little moisture as possible.

A most delicious tapioca pudding is made with canned pears or with fresh peaches. A few prunes or cherries are also good with tapioca.

Remember to wipe the top of the milk bottle before putting it into the ice chest. Hands are often far from clean that have handled it.

Lace curtains may be mended most satisfactorily by dipping a piece of lace in starch and ironing over the place to be mended. Trim the rough edges and the worn spot will be unnoticed.

The Desirable Dollar

to shop with Polly!

"SHOP" is scarcely the word to say—she's so assured and jaunty about it. You love to go along. Her clothes are quite the thing as she swings expectantly down the street. Her complexion is young, lovely. And so eager, alert, is her gay, clean mind that into this shop she hastens, then out with a bundle. Into that shop, then out with another. "Yes, this is the right cold cream," selecting the simplest of two jars—the white, fluffy insides looking alike, equally fragrant. You'd think her rather casual about her purchases, till home again she unwraps the finest powder money can buy. The cake of soap kindest for Polly's skin. Sheer chiffon hose of wonderful wear. And they prove the finest powder, kindest soap, longest wearing sheer hose.

Every shop trip Polly makes is a triumphant adventure. Out of magazines and newspapers she gathers the news that means getting what she wants, in the style and quality she wants it, at a price it is right to expect to pay. She never wishes after she's bought one thing that she'd considered longer and bought another. For Polly is sure. She has faith in her own good judgment and taste. Her choices come from an easy, happy survey of all that is buyable.

Polly reads the advertisements and remembers their news.

If you read the advertisements regularly, you can appraise what you buy with the clear, calm judgment of a professional.

Faconae Velvet Develops the shape of This Afternoon Frock, the Skirt Being Black. Deep Vels, Belt and Flower in Black Velvet Introduce Further Contrast.

It is curious, too, to take note of a number of ways designers have been of calling attention to the waist-line and to the hip. Bands, straight, diagonal, circular, and criss-cross, appear to be the more general method. In listing popular trimming devices, one is immediately struck by the prominence of banded effects, whether in self or contrasting material.

Peering into the future of fashions seems to disclose the interesting fact that velvets are to be used for all purposes and that all manner of novelty piles have been introduced, including lacoones, of which the gured jumper shown is made. One ends a fervent enthusiasm for velvets for evening and for day wear, for the more elaborate costume, as well as for so-called sports types.

Ragamuffin Band Out for the Coin

Rochester Band Formerly Received Pennies, but They're Getting Better and Sometimes Bigger Coins Come Their Way.

Rochester, N. Y., Aug. 22 (P.)—The Rogans and the Goldsteins, the Chelowskis and the Schmidts, the Aldriches and the Natolis; the native talents of a half-dozen old world countries; two mouth organs; a collection of battered horns; a discarded saxophone and a broken flute. Mix these instruments are marveled of well, pour into any Rochester by-street, and the result is none less than the "Ragamuffin Band." That is what the passer-by would tell a stranger who questioned him about this musical organization. But ask one of the "musicians." He would promptly tell you that he was a member of "Hogan's Junior Jazz Aces," a name to which the band has stuck despite the discouraging fact that its city-wide reputation is not for "Hogan's Junior Jazz Aces" at all, but for the "Ragamuffin Band," the name which the public itself has bestowed upon the "artists." Their ages range from six to eleven years. Sometimes the band numbers 20 players, or to be more exact 29 instruments, for there are frequently several "pieces" to one instrument. These instruments are marveled of in-

of string, a wire or a rubber band. That these things have musical talent is undoubted, doubtful though may be the quality of the music. They "just happened" to be together, according to Charley Hogan, the leader. They rehearse "sometimes in Hogan's garage," according to Goldstein, who is bandmaster. And business has been "coming in" according to Goldstein, business man.

Yes, they all say, they will go back to school in the fall. And if "the coppers" don't interfere too much, they'll have money enough for shoes and school books. Chelowski even mentioned an overcoat. "The coppers" interfere only because the cat-in-the-hat have a following which would block traffic if they were not kept moving. "Here, we like it," Hogan said.

Log-Rolling

Suppose you are a prominent author. If you can get another prominent author to say something nice about your next book (which he may not read) is it not perfectly proper for you to say something nice about his next book? Thus a publisher will throw a book to the lions; that is, he will send advance copies to the lions, and each lion will roar a little about it. The roars of all these lions will be compacted in an advertising campaign, the whole affair being concocted before the book is out. There is nothing seemingly wrong about this. Of course each lion will naturally expect to have some roaring done for him later by the author of the book.—Thomas L. Masson in Patches Magazine.

Mechanics Defeat The Colonials, 8-7

Colleton-Robins Forces Defeated for the First Time by a Local Club— Ninth Inning Rally Falls One Run Short.

The Colonials dropped their first game to a local club Saturday afternoon at the Fair Grounds when the Junior Order of American Mechanics scored an 8-7 victory over the Colleton-Robins team.

Lefty Harrington of Albany was the only member of the team from out of town and the Colonials had no little trouble in finding his slants. The locals were limited to seven hits by the Mechanics' hurler.

Winston started the contest for the Colonials but was relieved by Paul Joyce in the sixth. Joyce allowed but three hits during his stay on the mound.

The Colonials tried to rally in the ninth but fell short of tying the Mechanics after scoring four runs in the frame.

Grid Players Tune Up in the Movies

Work as extras in motion picture productions constitutes the major part of summer occupations of Southern California football men. Other work has been hard to procure, and the only labor running movies appears a respectable race, in the guard duties and fruit ranching.

Trojan athletes have been filling in for football, baseball, swimming, track and other sport scenes. Among those now on location are Capt. Morley Drury, Don Williams, Jesse Hibbs, Charles Boren, Marion Morrison, Lowry, McLaughlin, Don Moses and Clark Galloway.

WABBLING HURLERS ARE SOON YANKED

Few Pitchers Permitted to Work Out of Trouble.

Managers in the majors are so intent on winning games these days that they take few chances on a pitcher, once he has shown a disposition to wobble. A moundman who gets himself into trouble is seldom allowed to work out his own salvation or take the consequences. There is too much at stake.

He is derricked by most pilots the moment his predicament is realized. It is nothing out of the ordinary to see a team use two hurlers in the same game. In fact, it has become so common that it is almost the rule. And in many instances three or four moundmen are called upon in the course of an exciting game, in which one side is doing a lot of hitting. There have been several contests this year in which the batters of both teams were very much "on," with the result that there has been a regular procession of pitchers to and from the mound.

Recently Rogers Hornsby began the fact that so few pitchers "go the route." It is not their fault. They have no say-so in the matter. The manager's word is law, and when he says "To the showers," the pitcher must obey.

Some critics believe the pinch pitching is being overplayed. One of them points out that Miller Huggins is inclined to allow the Yankee hurlers to go the limit, regardless of success or failure, and he believes this policy accounts in great measure for the Yanks' success.

He adds: "A pitcher who starts a game and does not finish it has done his day's work. Yet too often he is credited with the victory because a lead which his mates piled up for him is maintained by some chap who relieved him."

Stanford Credits Sport Instruction This Fall

Coaches of major sports at Stanford will be required to give regular academic courses in their specialties next year as the result of changes sponsored by Dr. Thomas A. Story, new director of physical education.

Glenn "Pop" Warner, football coach, is to give two courses next fall quarter. One will be in elementary theory and the other for men with greater knowledge of football, who are interested in learning the game from a coach's standpoint. Regular academic credit will be given.

For the first time, physical education requirements may be worked off by practicing golf. Six driving cages have been erected and students will be allowed to sign for courses in golf.

Sting Expected to Race Again in Fall Campaign

Nursed back to health after an attack of the glanders that nearly caused his death, Sting, who won the Excelsior Handicap, the Metropolitan and the Suburban two years ago, may race this fall at the Empire City track, the property of the owner, James Butler.

A strong bond of affection binds horse and man. Offered $150,000 for the thoroughbred, Butler replied: "There are a lot of men in this world who have $150,000 or maybe a million, but there is only one man who has Sting."

Both Butler and the trainer of his stable believe the horse will carry silks again.

Natural Bread

The breadfruit tree is native of the island of the Pacific ocean and of the Indian archipelago. This fruit supplies food and its inner bark a material for making clothing. When the fruit is gathered for use at an early stage the pulp is white and mealy and of a consistency resembling that of new bread.

Dempsey Will Begin Training

Winds up Brief Vacation and Will Now Settle Down to Work at the Lincoln Fields Race Track—Hope That Golf Will Form Part of His Training Routine.

Chicago, Aug. 22 (AP).—The thunder of leather-covered fists will replace that of iron-shod hoofs at the Lincoln Fields Race Track this week when Jack Dempsey and his sparring partners get into action there.

Dempsey wound up his brief vacation before settling down to training, with a visit to the theatre last night with his wife, the former Estelle Taylor; Tex Rickard, and a small party of friends. Mrs. Dempsey seemed to be nearly recovered from her recent illness.

Dempsey made his first bow to a Chicago audience at the Police field meet at the Cubs' Park yesterday, and 32,000 in the packed grandstand gave him an uproarious welcome.

With Mayor William Hale Thompson in the pitcher's box and Rickard behind the plate, Jack drove the first ball pitched past the mayor's shin over second base, and the trio then retired in favor of the nines representing the Detroit and Chicago police departments.

Rondouts Won From Rosendales

The Rosdout A. C. with Paul Peters on the mound scored a 7-2 victory over Rosendales at Block Park Sunday afternoon. The Rosendales touched Peters for but four hits and in six of the innings he retired the side in order.

North started on the mound for Rosendales but after allowing two runs was substituted for Ken Best, who held the Rondouts to one in the last four innings.

The Rondouts will oppose the Post Office City for the third time this season at Block Park. The latter nine has been victorious in the two games played.

ALL-STARS LOST AT GOSHEN SUNDAY

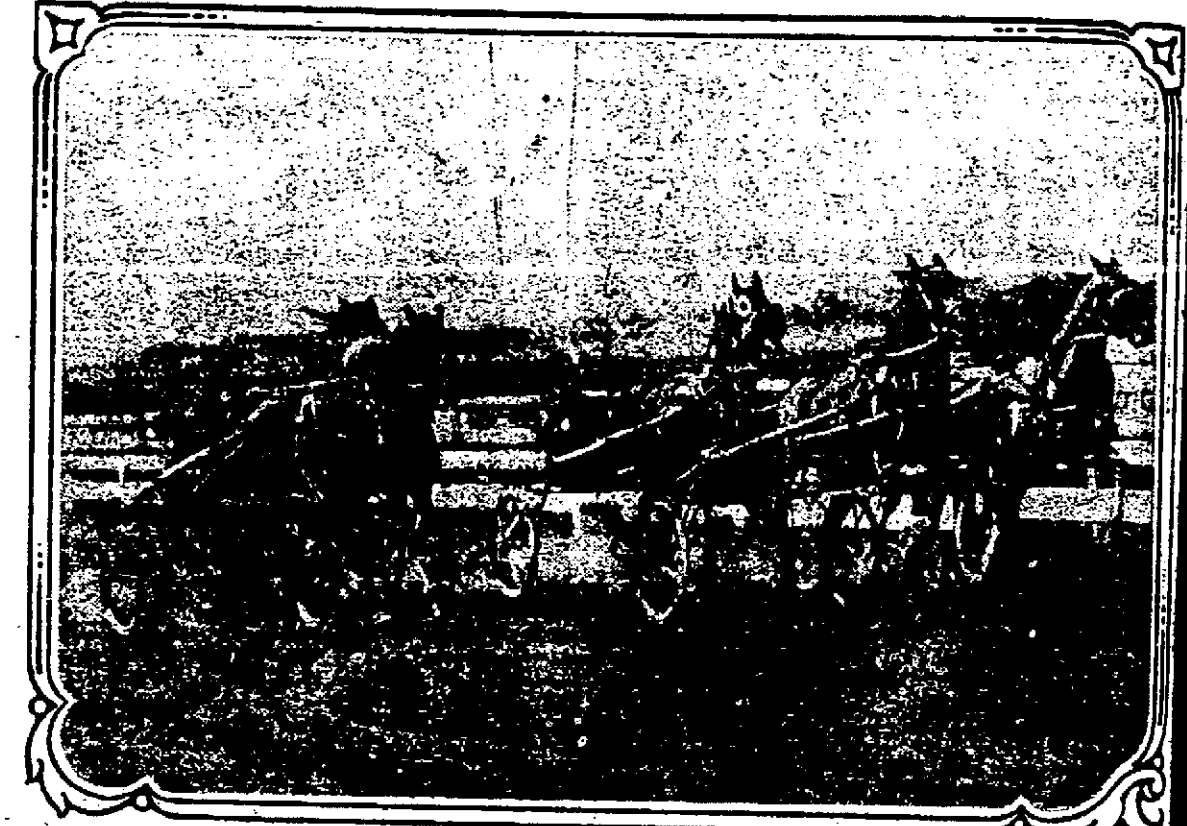

The Kingston All-Stars lost to Goshen Sunday afternoon on the latter's diamond 8-2. McCornick, who hurled for the Goshen team, was the main factor in the downfall of the locals who could not find their way after the first inning when two runs were scored. In the second the All-Stars made their final tally of 10 runs.

Hank Cragap, who hurled the last three innings for the All-Stars, was found for one run while Dewey VanBuren was nicked for twelve hits that resulted in seven runs for the first five innings.

"It will be, I have no doubt, a source of gratification to you to know that Chesterfield cigarettes were on sale and, at that, the leading American seller, in all parts of the world.

"We started our trip on December 2nd, and visited among other points—Madeira Island... Gibraltar... Monte Carlo... Algiers... Haifa... Jerusalem... Cairo... Naples... Suez...

Tagging Major League Bases

(By The Associated Press.)
New London has been injected into the National League race. The Chicago Cubs were in first place today by a margin of only three games over the Pittsburgh Pirates. St. Louis, in third place, was only four and one-half games away from the leaders, and the New York Giants, standing fourth, spotted the Bruins a five and one-half game margin. Although the schedule favors the inspired Cubs, there are many possibilities ahead in the final stretch.

The Giants and Pirates both gained on the Cubs yesterday. New York took both ends of a double header from Cincinnati, 5-4 and 6-1. Leslie Mann's pinch hit in the ninth inning of the first game decided the issue, and his home run in the second game with a runner on base, was enough for the second victory.

Pittsburgh pulled a game out of the fire from the Brooklyn Dodgers. Wright's timely clout in the ninth sent Kiki Cuyler across the plate with the winning run. Hill and Doak hooked up in a tight pitching duel and Hill would have scored a shutout had not Grantham let a throw from Gooch go through him to centerfield. Score, 2-1.

Cleveland made it two straight from the Yanks. Willis Hudlin rescuing Buckeye in the fourth inning and coming through for a 7-4 victory. It was the third straight defeat for the Yanks. Babe Ruth played only one inning and after he had singled he retired, saying he had hurt his back.

The Detroit Tigers strengthened their hold on second place in the American League standing by handing Washington an 11 to 4 beating. Haskell Billings, recruit collegian, held the Senators well in hand after the second inning.

Philadelphia batted three White Sox pitchers hard to gain an 8-6 decision. The Mackmen used three pitchers but Sammy Gray, the last to be called upon, stemmed the Chicago threat.

St. Louis and the Boston Red Sox met in an argument over last place. The Browns got into the 400 column by winning both ends of a double header, 5-0, and 4-3, and chilled the Boston hopes of ever getting out of the cellar.

Williams college athletes have not suffered a single reverse in dual track meets in eight years.

George Keogan, basket ball coach, has signed a contract to remain at Notre Dame during the 1927-28 season.

A pro tennis player can't make so very much money, when you figure what it costs to keep white shoes white.

The English Football association announced that 91,206 people witnessed the recent English cup soccer final at Wembley.

Willie Anderson is the only player who has won the United States open golf championship for three successive years.

Jockeys Sande and Thurber now have a business agent to arrange for all of their mounts outside of their regular stables.

Princeton university football squad will report September 15 for practice. Coach Bill Roper has 30 men as a nucleus for his varsity.

In the future Western conference athletes will not be permitted to write articles of a technical nature for newspapers, magazines or syndicates.

A new sports arena, to be known as the garden and costing $2,000,000, is to be built in Kensington in the north-eastern part of Philadelphia, Pa.

Crusader Retired From Racing

Crusader, famous son of Man o' War and widely acclaimed as the three-year-old champion of 1926, will be out of the races indefinitely if not for good. It was learned, as a result of injuries sustained when the thoroughbred was kicked at the post in the Brooklyn Handicap at Aqueduct.

Crusader received half a dozen severe cuts about the legs. The injuries were accepted as an explanation of the Riddle star's poor showing in finishing sixth in the Brooklyn after going to the post a heavy favorite.

Crusader, bred and owned by Samuel D. Riddle of Philadelphia, has earned close to $200,000 in three years and was the big money winner of 1926.

Hurdler With One Eye Star Runner

When Bud Spencer, Stanford university athlete, lost an eye in an automobile accident, he had to forego competition in his specialty, the hurdles. Although a brilliant hurdler before the accident, Spencer afterward was unable accurately to gauge the sticks.

Nothing deterred, the young man turned his attention to the distance race. He is now the best 440 and half-mile runner on the Stanford team.

Owner Ball of the St. Louis Browns has bought an airplane to follow the club around the circuit.

And we note these emergency pitchers with stuff up their sleeves turn out to have nothing but the lining.

Connie Mack has the unusual distinction of having seen his team finish in every position from first to eighth.

In a recent game with Columbus, Louisville didn't have a single player from its 1926 championship team on the field.

Robbie is beginning think that Plitt is one of the best pitchers he has picked up in years and the fans agree with him.

Meinie Manush, champion batsman of the American league last season, has been a distinct disappointment so far this season.

Lem Owen, right-handed pitcher of the Memphis Southern association club, has been released to the Bridgeport (Conn.) club of the Eastern league.

The Baltimore Orioles admit all boys in short trousers to view games free of charge on certain days, but older youths in golf pants are excluded.

Members of the Cincinnati Umpires' association have formed a baseball team which will compete against local semipro clubs in twilight games this season.

James C. Isaminger, one of the leading baseball writers of the country, has been appointed editor of the annual Keach Baseball Guide for the next edition.

Acquisition of Buck Freeman, an outfielder from the Boston Red Sox has been announced by President Spiller of the Atlanta Southern association club.

What's the next move by Connie Mack? His experiment with Jimmy Dykes on first base just about fills the book. Jimmy now has covered the four infield positions for the Athletics.

Stanley O. Robinson, Tuft's star left-handed pitcher, was given a try-out by Manager David Bancroft of the Boston Braves. His prospects of making a major league team are very bright.

Jimmy Poole, first baseman, has been sent to Baltimore of the International league, by the Athletics. This probably means that Jimmy Dykes has nailed the first sack for himself permanently.

Sammy Strong Nicklin, owner of the Chattanooga club for the past nine years, has passed out of the local baseball picture. He has sold the franchise and players to the Chattanooga Baseball company.

A Chicago baseball scribe who ought to know his onions, says Catcher Harry McCurdy got his nickname of "Five Yards McCurdy" from his habit of sliding head first to a base starting his slide 15 feet or so from the base.

Golfers in the United States spend at least $1,500,000,000 each year for the maintenance of their game, exclusive of the salaries of club executives, clerks and other help.

Wigs Long in Use
The custom of wearing wigs is an ancient one. Egyptian mummies have been found wearing wigs nearly as well made as those of our own times. In early Greece both men and women wore wigs. In Rome no fashionable toilet was complete without one, wigs of noblemen always choosing dark hair; yellow wigs were of very little repute.

Birds That Are Valuable
The biological survey says that during the breeding season a great many birds eat caterpillars, which they feed in large numbers to their young. The hairy caterpillars are not relished by many birds, the most conspicuous exception being the cuckoo. The yellow-billed and the black-billed cuckoo are notorious destroyers of the hairless caterpillar.

Colored "Bell" Was Copperhead.

Clarence Alsford of Milton while traversing the woods around Long Pond came upon what looked like a copper colored belt. He stooped to pick it up and it turned out to be a busting copperhead snake. Mr. Alsford killed it. It measured 38 inches long. It is claimed to be one of the largest killed in that vicinity in several years. Long Pond is a favorite fishing place and has become a popular swimming haunt but the large amount of copperhead snakes which abound around Long Pond take away the desire of fishing and swimming.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Aug. 22 (AP).—Establishment of record high levels by U. S. Steel common at 125 1/2 and General Motors (old stock) at 215 overcame all other developments in today's stock market. Waves of profit-taking swept over the market at intervals, giving it the appearance of irregularity, but volume was well absorbed, and the general trend was to higher levels.

Raising of the Hudson Motor dividend and the delay in the marketing of the new Ford car stimulated the demand for the motor shares. Further weakness crept out, however, in the Yellow Truck issues, the preferred paying more than three points.

Easy credit conditions continued to influence pool activities. Trade developments over the weekend showed no change in the general situation, although most of the earnings reports published made favorable comparisons with last year. Commission house comment inclined to the theory that the market is not likely to show indications of a definite price trend until after the Labor Day holiday.

There was nothing in the day's news to explain the demand for steel issues, although the accumulation of U. S. Steel common was attributed to some quarters to hopes of a more liberal dividend policy. Bethlehem crossed 44 to a new peak in expectations of a resumption of dividends not later than the first quarter of 1928.

Railroad shares held firm in quiet trading. A fair demand developed for some of the high priced issues such as Atchafon, Norfolk and Western, Illinois Central, Lackawanna and Delaware and Hudson. July earnings reports, now being published, are expected to show aggregate net income well below that of the same month last year.

Dupont, in which a capital readjustment is believed to be pending, crossed 300 to a new peak. Air Reduction, International Agricultural Chemical prior preferred, International Harvester and American Smelting all sold three to near seven points higher.

How to Be a "Star" Salesman

By EVELYN GAGE BROWNE

SELL yourself and the best that is in you. Before you start selling your line, then get your "stunt" over the footlights. As a "Star" that is bound to shine.

Don't be like the twins who keep howling. The very same kind of a "baw" each one of them yelling so loudly. You can't hear the other at all.

But resolve to get out of the chorus and make yours a solo part; then when you go after an order, just put in a bit of your heart.

Make your "stunt" different and vital. Be not one of the many—but few. And then the applause (and the orders) will just have to come right to you! (Copyright.)

WHEN I WAS TWENTY-ONE

BY JOSEPH KAYE

At 21—Daniel Chester French Was Embarking on His Career.

ABOUT this age I went to Chicago with a basketful of my sister, which I exhibited. It won favorable notice and procured me an order for a similar portrait by a Chicago lady, the first commission I received. It was just a few years after that I began work upon my first public statue, "The Minute Man."

When I got interested in a subject I lost all track of time and thoroughly enjoy myself. I am not like my old friend, St. Gaudens, who took things more seriously. He actually fought his work, studying it from every angle, worrying with it, puzzling over it. I have never worked that way and I used to feel guilty—as though I were having too good a time.—Daniel Chester French.

TODAY—Mr. French is one of America's most distinguished sculptors, the creator of "The Minute Man," an historical piece of work that is familiar to every American. At the time Mr. French proposed his plans to the memorial committee in charge of erecting the statue in Concord as a revolutionary memorial, French was totally unknown as an artist and practically self-taught, the only thing in his favor being that he was a native of Concord and that all he asked in financial returns was four hundred dollars for expenses. His design was accepted and Mr. French set to work without even the help of a model.

The artistic ability of the sculptor was first discovered when his stepmother found him carving a turnip into a caricature of a frog dressed in clothes. His career was decided upon then.

Do You Know That:—??—

"Oil on Troubled Waters", or to "Pour Oil on Troubled Waters" is a very old phrase meaning to pacify or to soothe.

We find the phrase mentioned in Bede's Ecclesiastical History which was written in Latin in 735 and later translated in 1563. It appears that St. Aidan had given his blessing to a young priest who was to set out by land, but return by water, to convey a young maiden destined to be the bride of King Oswin. St. Aidan gave the young man a jar of oil to pour on the sea if the waves became stormy. A storm did arise and the young priest poured the oil on the waves and they did actually become calm. Bede says he had the story from "a most creditable man in Holy Orders."—Anna S. Turnquist.

Culture in America

in Pleistocene Age

Primitive man lived in America at a vastly earlier time than is generally believed, says Scientific Monthly, if the evidence gathered by the Colorado Museum of Natural History in the Southwest is valid. Instead of dating back only some 8,000 to 25,000 years, the time when the Indian is supposed to have come to America from Asia, these human relics are assigned to the geological period known as the Pleistocene. It was in this age, from 25,000 to 1,000,000 years ago, that northeastern America was periodically covered with a glacier, and when prehistoric mastodons roamed the land.

The discoveries are mostly arrowheads, metates (primitive grinding instruments) and other worked stones, found in close association with extinct animals. Near Frederick, Okla., remains of a mammoth were found at a level of eight feet above that of a deposit which contained some of the relics. This is considered strong evidence of their antiquity. The arrowheads were totally unlike those in any known collections. They were primitive, but the man who made them must have progressed considerably in culture, as they were far in advance of the human relics of that period unearthed elsewhere.

First Horseshoes in Form of Sandals

It seems that the first protections used for the feet of horses and other beasts of burden were sandal-like in form. Notations to this effect were found by such ancient writers as Xenophon, who recommends leather soles and shoes for baggage horses, and Aristotle, who mentions a kind of sock bound on the feet of camels used in war. These were probably followed by the so-called hippopodamids, which varied in form, but usually consisted of an oval metal plate prolonged backward on either side and sometimes carrying a curved hook. In front and laterally are wings provided with eyes and rings. Straps passed through these clips, hooks, eyes and rings, fastening the shoe to the foot. The nailed-corse shoe as now found is thought to have been used some time before the Roman subjugation of Gaul. Several forms of shoes were made and it is probable that the art was practiced at more than one center, the Gauls generally being credited as the first to practice the art of horseshoeing. At that time a very light, slender shoe was fastened without the use of clips and the hoof was not pared. It is believed that the Druids made and fastened on the shoes for Gallic warriors.

Justice of King's Bench Ranks High in Dignity

London.—There are few positions of greater dignity in England than that of Justice of the king's bench. When on circuit the justice is treated with the ceremony usually accorded to royalty. He is deemed the first man in the county, and the bells of the circuit tower ring and a bugle announces the opening of his assize court.

Yet the Justice's salary has been at the same figure for nearly two centuries. When it was first set in the Eighteenth century at £5,000 a year, it was deemed a princely recompense, but with the decrease in the value of money and the present British income tax it is considered not so generous.

Tracing Name's Origin

"Tracing" was probably originally a family name used as a Christian name. It is from the Old English "Scot" plus "leah," meaning "dweller at the white lea or cliff."

Women Aviators Plan Atlantic Hop

One Aviator Plans Flight From New York to Undetermined Destination in Europe—Another Plans Flight from Wheeling to Paris.

New York, Aug. 22 (AP).—Two women aviators today have accepted the challenge of the Atlantic and announced that within the next few weeks they would attempt non-stop flights to Europe.

Mrs. Luba Phillips, Russian pilot of sixteen years' experience who came to this country four years ago, plans to pilot a Wright-motored Fokker monoplane from New York to an undetermined destination in Europe, while Miss Ruth Elder, of Lakeland, Fla., hopes to pilot a Stinson monoplane from Wheeling, W. Va., to Paris.

In the meantime unfavorable winds continue to hold to the ground at Mitchell Field, L. I., the Rome-bound Fokker monoplane Old Glory, while several test flights remain before the Stinson-Detroit monoplane. Sir John Carling can take off on its projected flight from London, Ontario, to London, England.

Near the Pan Am gasoline station he observed two Ford cars along the road and thought he saw his brother in one of the cars. He requested Bowers to stop. Frenchman's Right to Cheat Wife Upheld

According to the code of gallantry, a man must not strike a woman, not even with a flower. John Tobin, in "The Hussyman," said that "The man that lays his hand upon a woman, save in the way of kindness, is a wretch whose name is a curse to his name."

Yet in France it is judicially decreed that a man is not culpable who chastises his wife for deceiving him. This judgment was rendered in a case in which a woman sought a divorce from her husband on the ground that he had beaten her. She demanded an investigation of her charges. The husband did not deny the accusation, but pleaded justification and presented proof of his wife's treacherous conduct. Thereupon the court held that the physical violence of the husband, even when fully proved and admitted, did not constitute ground for a divorce, because the wife had herself provoked it.

Virtues Underestimated
Usefulness and happiness are true measures of success. They are within the reach of every man. Indeed, they generally can be had for the taking. Because of this, perhaps, they are too frequently underestimated, especially by the ambitious.—Grit.

THE HIDDEN KEY--AND OTHER FAKES

By W. R. MOREHOUSE

Public Relations Commission, American Bankers Association

HAVE you ever gone hunting for the hidden key—a key, hidden by real estate dealers in order that you among hundreds of others might be given the exercise of tearing up the surface of some new subdivision looking for it? Talk about wild turkeys tearing up the "terra firma," they haven't anything on man. A new subdivision is put on the market. Public interest in the tract is needed, so a key that will open a box in the tract office is hidden beneath the earth's surface somewhere in the tract. This hidden key will open the box in the office and inside the box the lucky finder of the hidden key will find a valuable prize. It may be anything from a diamond ring to an order for an automobile. A new automobile stands in front of the office and presumably it is the prize.

Picture in your own mind hundreds of eager searchers digging over the surface of a newly born boom subdivision, looking for the hidden key—the key to the big surprise box. About the time the diggers have been recruited to several hundred, the key shows up and the news of the discovery breaks. Soon the diggers gather around to see the mysterious box opened. Imagine the automobile, but an unlimited supply of $100 certificates. Just another scheme to catch a lot of "suckers." Nearly every person possesses the gambling instinct to a more or less degree. The truth is, the average American is more or less inclined to take unnecessary risks. In the realm of money making many are ready to take a long-shot chance in order to strike it rich, if possible.

Knowing the inclination of the average American to gamble, irresponsible schemers lie awake nights plotting as to the best way of arousing the gambling instinct of the investor, and when this has been done they proceed to fleece him out of his cash. By using various "baits" these get-rich-quick promoters are usually successful, especially among persons who are inexperienced in making investments and who neglect to investigate before they invest.

You can't get rich by dealing with promoters of the wild-cat type, but you can quickly lose what capital you have signing of your name on the dotted line of some trick contract, or the drawing of your check payable to some sharp real estate or other promoter, or the turning over of your cash, may spell financial ruin for you.

As a safeguard against losing your cash reserve, leave it in the bank until you have made a thorough investigation, which you can do without cost to you if you will consult your banker, or write to the National Better Business Bureau, New York.

Each day discloses new victims of some crooked scheme. Old schemes having lost their effectiveness as a result of exposure have given way to new schemes to defraud. The new schemes are even more deceptive than the old forms. Fractional-share schemes, territorial-rights schemes and co-operative land ventures are reaping a harvest for present promoters. Because so many new schemes are being formulated is another reason why you should investigate before you invest.
